Goldratt Webcast - "How to Get Results Using Critical Chain" - Starts February 13

Realization, the pioneer in execution management systems, today announced that any organization struggling to finish projects on time should sign up for the "Critical Chain Breakthrough for Project Execution Management" webcast to be hosted by Dr. Eli Goldratt, who developed the solution for project-based organizations ranging from engineer-to-order manufacturers to maintenance, repair and overhaul facilities. There will be five sessions of 2.5 hours each starting February 13, 2008, and running every two weeks.

"We have more than 200 customers using our Critical Chain-based execution management system with outstanding successes," explains Sanjeev Gupta, CEO of Realization. "For instance, the U.S. Air Force Warner Robbins Air Logistics Center now finishes C-5 aircraft maintenance 33 percent faster and is saving $2.37 billion in the replacement value of aircraft. In fact, they won the 2006 Franz Edelman Award for their achievement. By learning about Critical Chain in this series of webcasts, other organizations will be able to see how they, too, can become more successful."

In the webcast series, Goldratt will personally explain all the important steps for implementing Critical Chain and realizing immediate results. He will reveal previously unreleased details of the Critical Chain methodology, from project planning to managing execution. Of special interest to project-based businesses, Goldratt will describe a competitive strategy based on superior project performance and show how to integrate improvement techniques from Lean and Agile methodologies with Critical Chain. Attendees will also learn about the role of software in implementing Critical Chain.

The cost of the webcast series is $2,500 for one access link with no limit on the number of viewers per link. The investment also includes OnDemand viewing between sessions, allowing different locations of the organization to use the link at any time. There will also be the opportunity to hold an interactive Question&Answer session with Dr. Goldratt. Various connections speeds are available.

To sign up for the series of five webcasts, contact Chloe Feng at 408-271-1719, email cfeng@realization.com.
